

PROJECT SUMMARY

Umatilla County needed a transitional center for discharged offenders at their Pendleton Corrections location. As a supervised dormitory unit, the transitional center had to meet commercial & residential code requirements. The building provides nine individual rooms, a common living area, a large full-service kitchen & a bathroom/shower area for the occupants in a durable & secure environment for rehabilitation. Operational costs were a major consideration for the county. Energy-efficient features include: vestibule entrance, low flow water management systems, efficient lighting fixtures, high-density insulation & double pane vinyl windows. The facility was operational within three days of modular placement.
